death yesterday, after she had made a frantic effort to secure help by ringing the farm dinner bell.

Mrs. Eller was alone in the orchard burning brush when her skirts caught fire. She ran to the dinner bell and pulled the rope. Her husband hastened from the fields at the gound of the bell, but found her dead.

Most Effective Home Treatment of Rheumatism

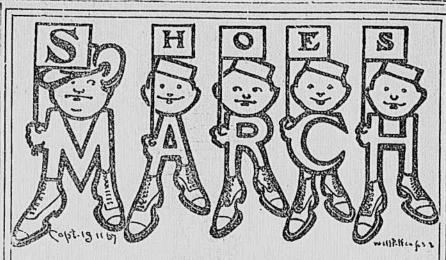

If you are suffering from chronic rheumatism, or if you are just beginning to feel its dreadful twinges and pains you would do well to stop its ravages at once by having your drugsist mix the following prescription, and persistently use it to rid the hody of the poisons and morbid states which excite the dreadful disease. When the true and pure ingredients are properly mixed, the results are little short of marvelous
